THE DINING SCENE IS ON FIRE RIGHT NOW. HERE ARE A FEW PLACES DISHING OUT SOME TOP HITS OF THE SEASON.

BIRDIE'S

This one's for the birds—having recently set up shop in Lakewood, this new culinary concept from Jon Alexis offers palette-pleasing dishes in a relaxed ambiance. A bonus is the sprawling patio, which patrons can enjoy on an auspicious day. Lucky for us, springtime in Texas is optimal for some patio fun. 6221 E. ## COLUMBIAN COUNTRY CLUB

Calling all Gilded Age fans! The newly opened Colombian Country Club mirrors the mystique of New York City's iconic Golden Age era. Sitting pretty on the East Side, this opulent spot features a cheeky assortment of signature sips, including the Hanky Panky, Espresso Martini, and the storied Señor Harvey Wallenbanger. What's that, one might ask? You'll have to visit to find out. "We invite our guests to step into a world of sophistication, nostalgia, and elegance unlike anything else in Dallas," notes Briann Rutt, who founded the chic space with partners Justin Kallhoff and Jonathan Rosenberg. "You can come here to enjoy crisp martinis whether you are on business or want to enjoy a date night and sip on drinks before or after dinner or even skip dinner to enjoy bites and cocktails here." 3314 Ross Ave., columbiancc.com

JINGHE

Sake and sashimi lovers, rejoice! Jinghe Japanese Restaurant has joined the party. Nestled in the heart of Mockingbird Station, this spot offers Izakaya-inspired fare with a modernized flare. Delight in Takoyaki, Gyoza, and Wagyu galore while sipping on a wide selection of sake, Japanese whiskey, and more.. 5321 E. Mockingbird Lane, jinghejapanese.com

SANJH

Transport yourself to the rich history of Indian cuisine as you step into the lush new restaurant, Sanjh. “We have strived to show every part of India on the menu wherever we could. Our team of chefs has worked across the country, bringing a little piece of each region to our restaurant,” shares chef Chadha regarding the sparkling new space. “As guests step through our door, they’ll be whisked away to a convivial dinner party in India where aromas waft throughout the space, setting the precedence for what is to come on their plates and the symphonic noise from the hustle and bustle of the kitchen sets the tune to the celebration." 5250 N. O'Connor Blvd., sanjrestaurant.com
